Center on Disability & Development

Connecting Careers to Research and Education.

Since 2005, the Center on Disability and Development (CDD) in the College of Education and Human Development at Texas A&M University The Center on Disability and Development at Texas A&M University (CDD) supports the self-determination, community integration, diversity, and quality of life of people with disabilities and their families. As a federally designated University Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities (UCEDD), we are part of a national network similar centers across the country, and serve as a resource to the community in the areas of education, research, and service as relates to the needs of people with disabilities.

The CDD support individuals with disabilities and their families to be change agents who are valued, contributing community members, as self-defined, through education, research, and knowledge dissemination, the CDD has four core functions.

- Community Services - provides training, and technical assistance to individuals with disabilities, their families, and those who support them.
- Research and Evaluation - to improve school services and outcomes, and increase the quality of community life.
- Interdisciplinary Pre-service - offers disability-related training through Texas A&M University.
- Information Dissemination - develops tools for people with disabilities and their support systems.

The 2019 Texas Transition Conference

The Texas Transition Conference is a two-day event, with a pre-conference session, focused on providing evidence-based practices that result in a smooth transition from school to adult life for youth with disabilities. Participants will receive intensive training in five focus areas:

- STUDENT-FOCUSED PLANNING
- FAMILY INVOLVEMENT
- INTERAGENCY COLLABORATION
- STUDENT DEVELOPMENT
- PROGRAM STRUCTURE

Over 7,000 attendees have attended Texas Transition Conference since 2005. Last year, 700 conference attendees from all over the state of Texas joined us to educate and share information. Attendees include educators, transition specialists, vocational coordinators, service agency representatives, youth with disabilities and their families.

The Center of Disability and Develop is proud to offer companies and organizations an opportunity to sponsor at the Texas Transition Conference in 2020. Our established reputation throughout the state and engaged attendees is a perfect opportunity to future network and connect during this 2-day event.

HIGHLIGHTED PROGRAMS

Service and Outreach providing ongoing community service and training projects that are designed to increase quality of life, support self-determination and diversity, and/or facilitate community integration for people with disabilities and their families.
